

i don't personally have xm radio but i know those that do and they benefit greatly from it, it is ridiculous that the NAB should want to limit the potential of this new technology - they should improve their own services to compete, that's just the American way